WABASH IN 1952

This is an attempt to record the life of Wabash College during the academic year 1951-1952. I say "attempt" because pictures cannot express or words relate the undefinable values coming as the unsought result of education in this small liberal arts college. To those leaving the campus this June as well as to those who will have the opportunity to spend another year at Wabash, I submit the record of what you did in 1952.

FACULTY

DIVISION ONE

Well housed in the two science buildings on the Wabash campus, Division One teaches students in chemistry, physics, biology, and mathematics. Every student is required to take at least one course in mathematics and two courses in any of the other sciences. The lights seemed to burn a little later and the work seemed to be little harder, but those who chose to major in Division One found they had received a comprehensive education, although some may have balked at the "out of division" courses. Those who chose to go on to graduate school found their experience in Division One at Wabash gain them entrance into the country's top professional schools. For all who took courses in Division One, some of the mysteries of the world around us were brought to the classroom and laboratory.

GOODRICH HALL

DIVISION TWO

In Division Two the Wabash student is exposed to the Humanities, which include English, foreign languages, philosophy, religion, and speech. Many found the so-called "dead languages" weren't so dead after all, while we all enjoyed bits of discourse in the idioms we learned in classroom. The third floor of Center Hall was a center of activity for those doing work in speech, debate, or dramatics, although rather severe critcism of the "Great Books" issued forth here. Division Two still tried to make the old world live for the new. In the basement of the chapel philosophy, art, music, and Latin were taught while the chapel organ groaned above our heads. In old South Hall, which this year served its last days for Wabash, the romance languages were taught on the second floor while on the first floor the student body and faculty were inclined to hold long boresses in the Scarlet Inn.

Theodore Bedrick Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Latin

JAMES INSLEY OSBORNE

The death of Dr. James Insley Osborne came as a shock to all of us. This man, whose personality represented the ideals and aims of Wabash College, was an integral part of the Wabash community. Dr. Osborne served for thirty-four years as chairman of the English department, and his years of service were preceded by those of his father on the faculty, making seventy-five years that the name Osborne had been associated with Wabash College. To the memory of James Insley Osborne this yearbook is dedicated.

To have Dr. Osborne for a class was indeed a privilege. Not a class went by that wouldn't leave the student thinking about what had been discussed. The principles and big ideas were cleared of fogginess and confusion, while there was always time to intensify a minor point with a bit of subtle humor. Dr. Osborne always taught at least one freshman class, and those fortunate enough to be in this group realized their college experience had been made richer through contact with this man.

James Insley Osborne had lived all but a few years of his life in the Wabash community. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Wabash in 1906, and during the next year did work on a master's degree while teaching German and English. Later he was selected as a Rhodes Scholar to Christ Church College, Oxford University, and received the Bachelor of Arts degree from this university in 1913. Shortly after that he attended Columbia University, and was subsequently awarded the Doctorate of Philosophy. He then came to Wabash College, where he remained on the faculty until his death in January of 1952. We of Wabash will not soon forget the memory of this man.

DIVISION THREE

Division Three is composed of the social studies, which include economics, political science, history, and psychology. Although relatively new in the field of education when compared to science or humanities, Division Three gives a general knowledge of many things specific knowledge of a few things, and the ability to talk intelligently about the affairs of the highly complex world of today. Division Three has as its goal the "well-rounded man," the ideal of a Wabash education. By studying theories, policies, and behavior patterns of that intricate animal Man, the student of the social studies endeavors to predict the future from what has gone before in the past, all the while keeping in mind the many deviations introduced when human nature is taken into account. In the ture spirit of liberal arts, Division Three teaches the man to become educated in the skill of getting along in public life today.

CLASSES

SENIORS

Senior Class Officers: Bob McCreery, Secretary; Doyle Pickett, Vice-President; Bob Holstine, President; John Paul Jones, Treasurer.

Nineteen forty eight seemed a long time ago for the members of the senior class. They had fought their way through freshman hazing, sophmoric macrocephaly, and junior enlightment. We kidded them about studying for their comps, but when the time came to give out the degrees we knew this was an unusual class. The loss of valuable players to the athletic teams will be felt sharply, while the scholarship of the class of 1952 was impressive. Three of its members were elected as junior Phi Beta Kappa. Wabash knew that in graduating this class it was sending out into the world eighty-seven of its fiinest.

The junior class, although relatively small, carried the burden of the extra-curricular work. Such jobs as the publication of the Bachelor and the Wabash as well as the staging of the Pan-Hel dance were done by these men who will next year attack their final phase of work. This class seemed to be caught in the middle of the draft scare, and lost many of its men to the armed forces. Those who remained maintained standards of performance in the classrooms and on the athletic field.

If one were to look for many signs of overt bigheadiness in the sophomore class he would be disappointed. These men realized they were free from any restraints imposed upon them as freshmen, so as a supplement to their intense hazing program they began to knock on the door to knowledge. Most of the sophomores decided where they would concentrate, while continuing with a plague of required courses which invariably included religion, speech, or a physical science. All agreed, however, that it was good preparation for the difficult work to come.

Row One: R. Myers, Phil Smith, Mike Gray, Bill Garrard, John Proffitt, Harold Metcalf, Norm Klein, Fred Dunbar, Bob Inman, Jim Duncan, Ron Repking, Don Nay.

FRESHMEN

Freshman Class Officers: Harry Hans, Vice-President; Rex McCoy, President; Jack Bratton, Secretary; Phil McKinsey, Treasurer.

The class of 1955 thought they had an outstanding class, and immediately set out to prove it. This was the first year freshmen were permitted to play on the football team. Their showing on the gridiron as well as on the basketball floor spoke well for the class. The annual freshman-sophomore fight ended with the frosh victorious, and able to burn the symbol of their degradation—the rhynie pot.

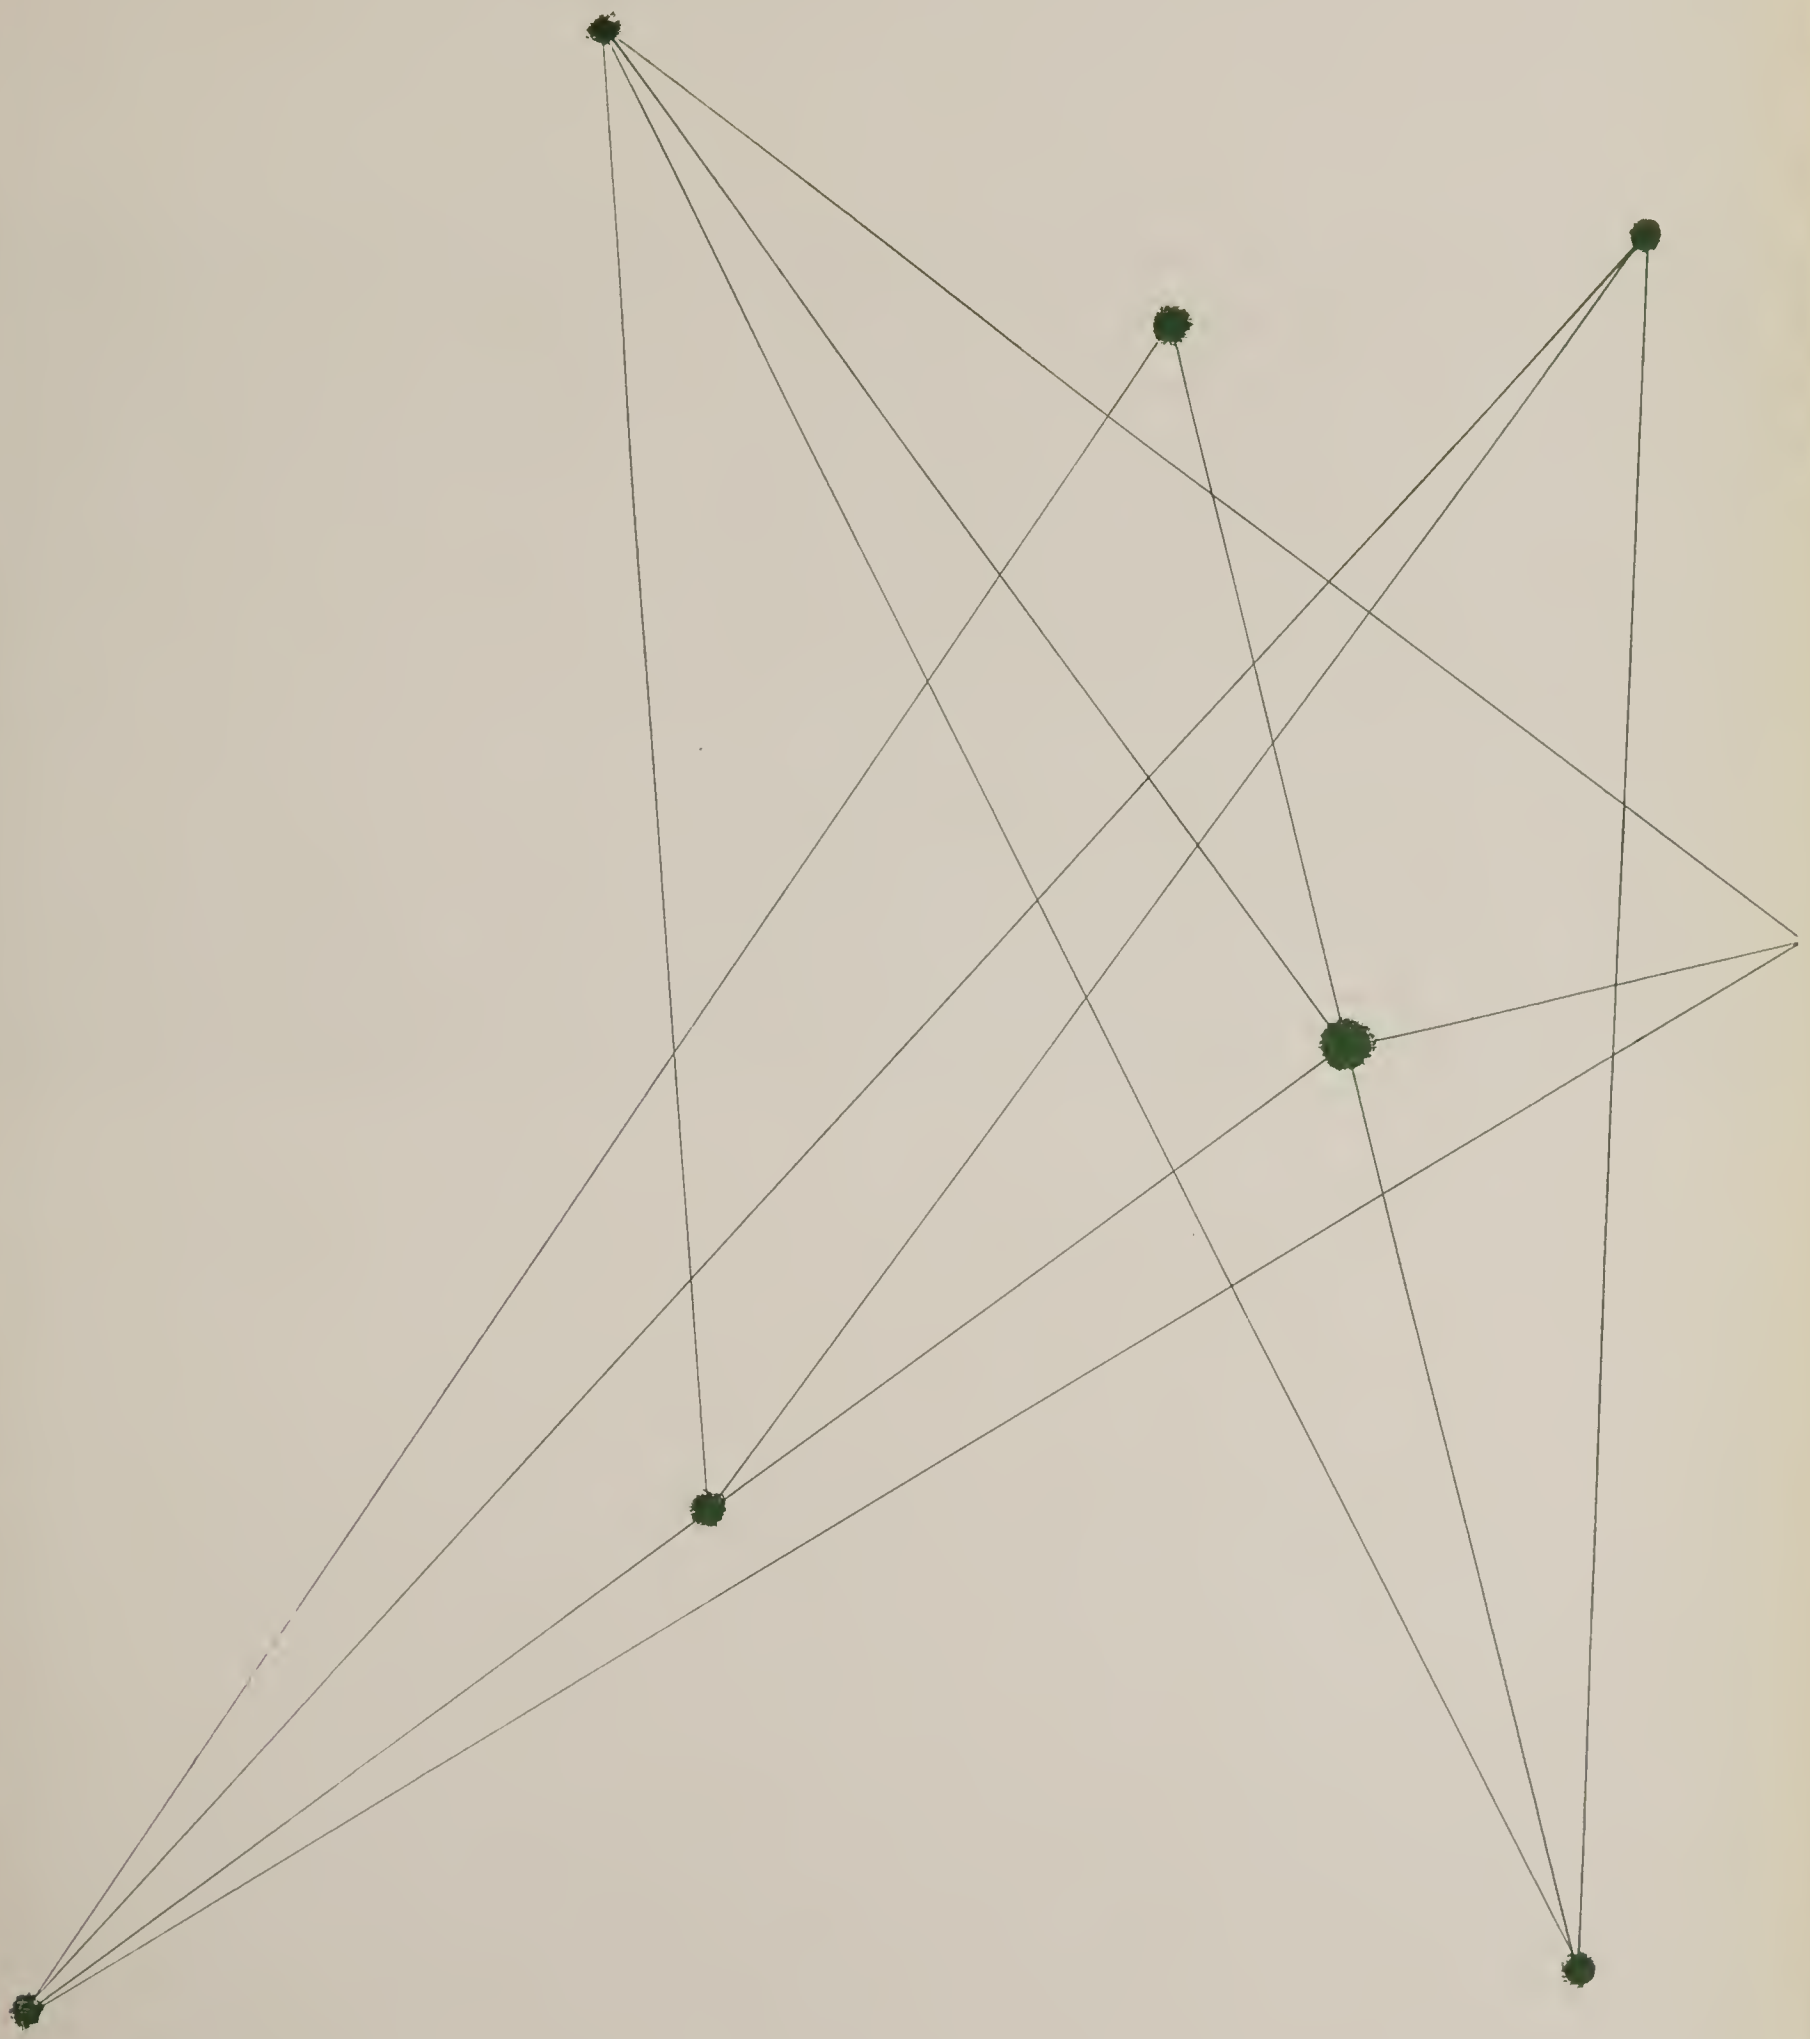
Activities



Pan-Hellenic Council

The Pan-Hellenic Council is an organization with representatives from the eight fraternities and the independent men. Its purpose is not to govern the fraternities but to work out problems, mostly of a social nature, whieh affeet the fraternities as a whole. The Council awarded a scholarship eup to the fraternity with the highest grade average. Phi Gamma Delta won it for their work the previous year, while Lambda Chi Alpha won it for the eurrent school year.

Perhaps the main function of the Pan-Hellenic Counеil besides passing out trophies is the preparation of the annual Pan-Hel dance held in May. This dance, the zenith of the Wabash soeial season, required a lot of work from the members of the council, who served as eo-ordinators in the mass deeoration of the gymnasium preeeding the event.

Senior Council

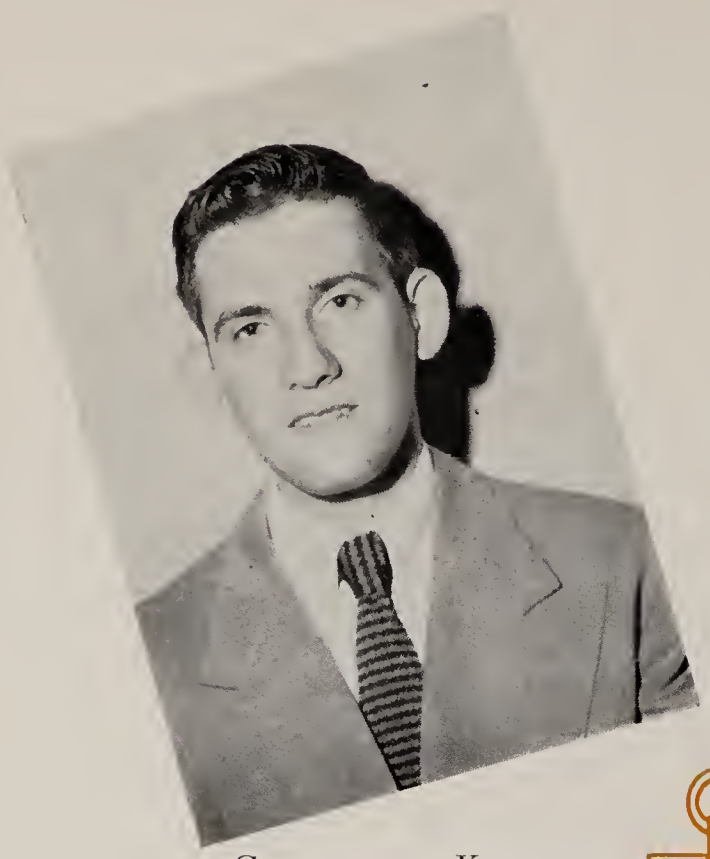
The Senior Counеil of Wabash College has as its two-fold function the indoetrination of freshmen and approving of budgets for various campus organizations. When the new student magazine wanted funds to print the first issue it was the eouncil that made the appropriation. The Senior Council, headed by Norman Bukteniea, met regularly to work out the problems associated with their work.

Although the Senior Council is teehnieally not a student governing body, it did a lot of work towards the solution of mutual problems among the fraternity and independent groups. Fraternity treasurers met to compare eosts in their constant battles with the budget. The freshmen found it ineonvenient to be checked for their pots when they left ehapel, and morc inconvcnient to sing "Old Wabash" before a roaring student body. Although to some the Senior Counеil appeared to be obsolete, it was generally agreed that the group did well in handling several important phases of student affairs.

Phi Beta Kappa



Christopher Kirages

Thomas Allen Klingaman

Robert George McCreery

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest Greek letter society existing today, is given to those who excell in scholarship and possess good moral character. Three members of the senior class were chosen for Phi Beta Kappa as juniors because their excellent records almost coincided. From the senior class of the preceding year the following men were chosen: Philip A. Davidson, Charles W. Goering, Kurt D. Kaufman, Kenneth L. Millican, Donald C. Pratt, Charles R. Price, Robert W. Rogers, Robert H. Saxton, and Joseph L. Smith.

Blue Key

The Blue Key honor society is composed of upper classmen outstanding in activities as well as scholarship. As a project this year Blue Key sponsored a student skit night with nine student groups and a faculty group presenting ten minute skits in the chapel. Phi Kappa Psi won the contest and the cup given for it. Dick Gooding served as president of Blue Key during the school year.

Sphinx Club

The Sphinx Club is an organization whose members are elected from the athletes and activity men on campus. Recognized by their distinctive grey and white pots, the Sphinx Club was ready to give the Senior Council a helping hand in freshman hazing. The spirit of the organization always ran high, especially around initiation time. Jim Swope headed the club, which gave a homecoming decorations trophy in the fall and senior awards in the spring.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity whose members are former scouts. The organization performed various services around the campus such as ushering at football games and taking over the newly organized student book store. Doyle Pickett was president the first semester while Tom Woerner was president the second semester.

Row One: Mitsuya Goto, Frank Mullen, Walt Elisha, Bill DuBois, Vic Lindquist.

International Relations

The International Relations Club was active during the first semester, when it gave programs and talks of current international events. Al Keisker served as president of the organization, which merged with the Political Forum to make the Public Affairs Forum because it was thought the International Relations Club and the Political Forum were overlapping too much in their functioning.

Row One: Dave Olive, Dick Myers, Don Hendrickson, Charles Moody, Bob Bahr, Charlie Lytle, Al Stolz, J. F. Cook, Duane Blume, Tim Thorpe, George Jones, Dave Wright.

Row Two: Bill Christe, Bill Augspurger, Dick Burg, Frank Mullen, Max Sneary, Dave Hogoboom, Dave Bolton, Dave Courier, Wayne Broshar, Duane Neet, Doug Stanwyck, Dave Eades.

Independent Men

All independent men of Wabash College are eligible for membership in the Independent Men's Organization, which has its representatives on the class boards, Senior Council, and Pan-Hellenic Council. The group sponsored a homecoming dance in the fall and held a picnic in the spring. Bob McCreery and Max Sneary were presidents of the organization.

Row One: Mary Ann Woerner, Arlene McCreery, Mary Louise Allee, Peggy Reeves, Sue Reinke, Georgianna Maxwell, Jeanne Atkins.

Row Two: Betty Nimmo, Nancy Woods, Joy Sneary, Rosanna Franz, Mary Neal, Doreen Wright, Martha Hepler, Given Green, Betty Pitzer, Jackie Eggleston, Jane Davis, Margaret Beach, Patricia Clark.

Members Not Present: Marilyn Winebrenner, Lou Belle Holstine, Barbara Lee, Helen Aikins, Elvena Barnes, Laura Delorenzo, Cindy Olsen.

Dames Club

The Dames Club has as its members wives of students and faculty. The club is strictly of a social nature, although once a year they raise funds by putting on a penny sale. This was the sixth year the Dames Club has been organized.

RICHARD S. FRANKS
Business Manager

Wabash 1952 had its beginning in the middle of the summer of 1951, when the editor first began to get some ideas of what the book would look like. Talks with the engraver and eover manufacturer got the details out of the way so that when school began all that remained was to get the pictures and copy. This proved to be no small task however, for several times the smell of burning midnight oil was deteeted by those who were in eontact with the staff. When spring came the work started to pile up as the end drew near. The book was printed and the staff breathed a sigh of relief.

The business staff, under the direction of business manager Dick Franks, did an excellent job of handling subscriptions, sales, and advertisements in the face of ever-rising printing costs. They again set a record for advertising sales, which kept the book well in the black. Sports editor Bob Woods handled the athletic section while Jim Duncan, Gordon Smith, Ray Rice, and Dave Lewis took care of the rest of the book.

Sports: Ray Rice and Bob Woods.

The Bachelor came out every Friday afternoon as a result of great effort on the part of staff members on week nights. Editorials on the second page blasted forth at lethargic student organizations or illogical thinking. In the "Letters to the Editor" column the student body had their complaints put into print for whatever good they might do. This was the "Voice of Wabash since 1908" and some worried that it wasn't long enough.

Editors Tom Woerner and Bill Reinke worked hard to make The Bachelor an accurate account of life at Wabash. There were always plenty of student interest articles as well as feature articles to catch the eye. Cartoonist Cole contributed some of his efforts in the form of a comic strip. The business staff, headed by business manager Dick Daniels, did the best they could with the finances while circulation manager Dick Cheney saw that the papers were delivered on time. Despite the once a week publishing schedule The Bachelor always managed to carry a lot of news the campus hadn't heard before.

Row Two: Jack Riley, and Ellis Early.

Feature Staff, Row One: Bob Behrens and Pete Schma.

Business Staff, Row One: Ed Griffin and Dick Daniels.

Pi Delta Epsilon

Pi Delta Epsilon is a national journalism honorary society for colleges and universities not having a journalism school. The Wabash chapter, under Gail Mullin as president and Professor Harvey as advisor, selects as members those men who have worked two years on any campus publication. A student handbook was published early in the fall by Pi Delts Brad Johnston and Ted Steeg.

Robert Mitchum, Jim Hostetter, Prof. Paterson, Gail Mullin, Prof. Harvey, Doyle Pickett, Don Cole.

Board of Publications

The Board of Publications, composed of former editors and business managers as well as faculty members, has the job of approving the budgets and advising the student publications. This year they had the task of putting the thirty year old Caveman to sleep because the magazine seemed not to justify itself to the administration. Gail Mullin, former Wabash editor, served as president of the board.

Paul McKinney, Ralph Caplan, Nick Steele, Walter Fertig, Paul Tippett, Philip Wilder.

Wabash Review

The Wabash Review is a magazine composed of student contributions in the serious literary vein. This year the Review was sponsored by the Dads' Club instead of the Board of Publications. Paul McKinney and Nick Steele were the editors. The first issue came out in the middle of the school year, while another was scheduled for the end of the year.

Political Forum

The Political Forum had scarcely finished celebrating its first birthday before it ended its existence on the Wabash campus. Along with the International Relations Club it was merged into the Public Affairs Forum. The Public Affairs Forum sponsored a mock Republican presidential convention in the spring. Dick Gooding served as president of the forum.

Chess Club

The Chess Club was new on the campus this year, being formed by a group of chess enthusiasts, predominantly from the freshman class, who engaged in semi-weekly battles. Professor Frank Horvay of the German Department acted as advisor, while Al Kamradt served as student president.

Nick Steele, Duane Stribling, Herb Hawvermale, Bill Miofsky, Frank D. Horvay, Gene Leader, Charles Crume, Harold Metcalf, Don Smith.

Intelligence Unit

The German Intelligence Unit was organized in 1951 as a reserve unit of the U. S. Army. The members are instructed in military intelligence during the school year and attended camp during the summer. Dr. Frank Horvay led the group until he took a leave of absence to work in Washington. After that the men had to travel to Purdue to receive their training.

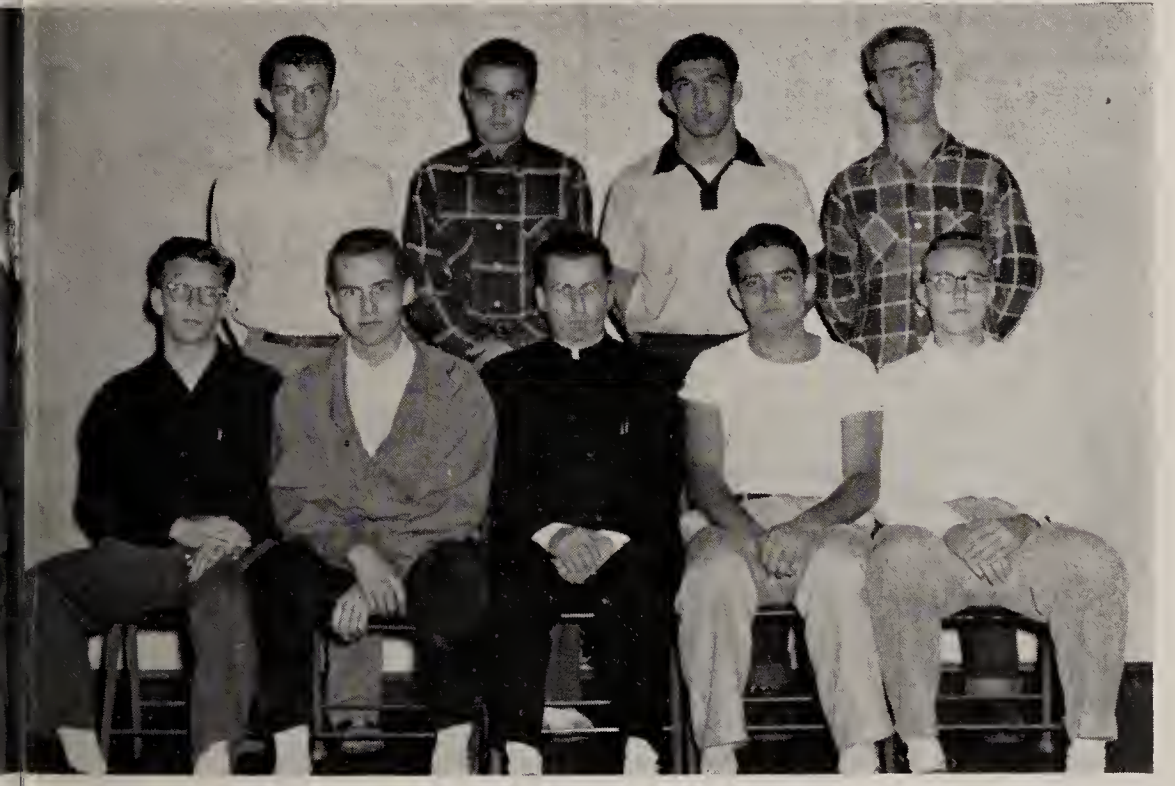
Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. met every Friday evening to discuss problems pertaining to religion. The meetings were regularly held in the home of Dr. Hans Frei, with outside speakers or faculty members to lead the discussions. The members conducted a Lenten service in the chapel immediately preceding the Easter vacation. Jim Cox was president of the group.

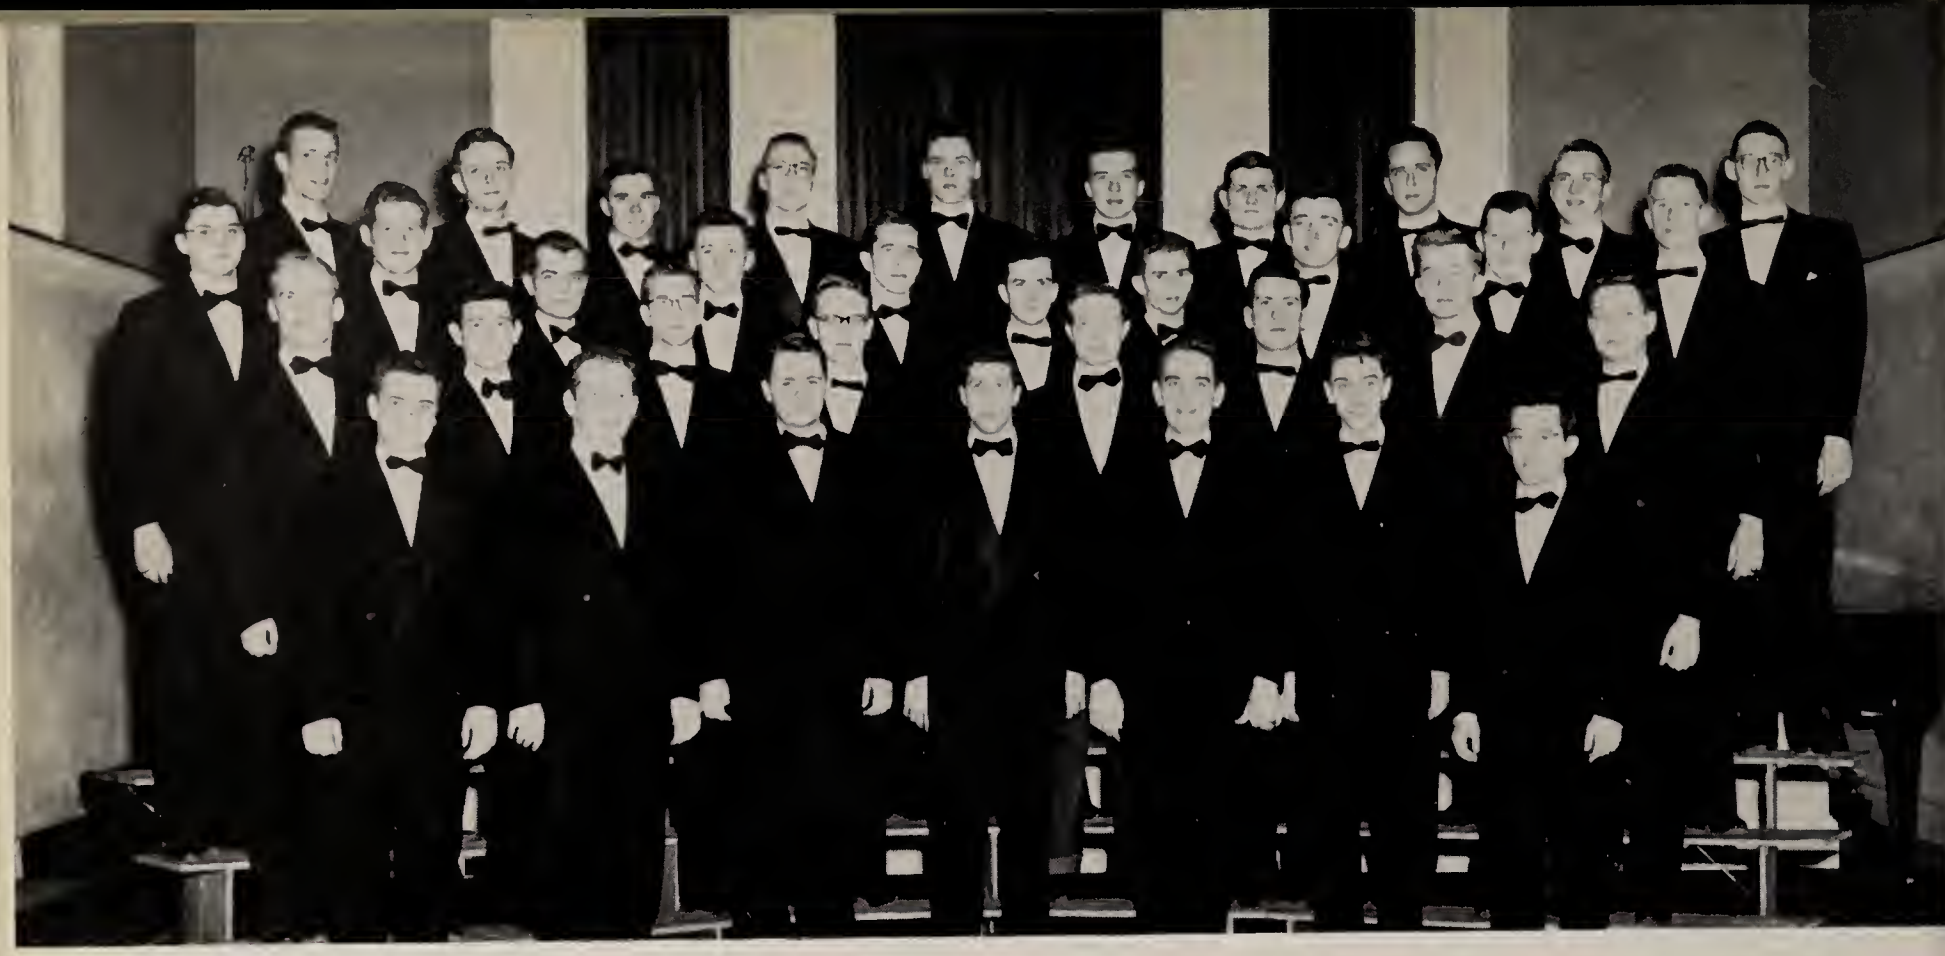


Row One: Bill Graham, Pete Schma, Father Arthur A. Sego, Peter Shepherd, John Huneke.

Row Two: Ed Gass, Steve Shepherd, Al Kamradt, Bob Hegberg.

Newman Club

The Newman Club is an organization of Roman Catholic students who meet regularly to discuss current problems as related to the religious views of the members. The Newman Club was organized in 1950 and Father Sego has been its sponsor since that time. This year an exchange picnic was held with the Butler University Newman Club. Pete Schma served as president.



The Wabash Glee Club

Row Two: Dave Saunders, Lindsey Kirchgessner, Dave Olive, Tom Ehminger, Jim Duncan, Bob Behrens, Vic Lindquist, Dick Lord.

Row Three: Carl Crumpe, Warren Harding, Dave Remley, Mike Patterson, Nick Steele, George Myers, Ed Griffin, Roger Drummond, Paul Trenary, Dave Nall.

Glee Club In Practice

An important part of the glee club program were the practices which had to be held twice a week in the chapel. Most of the members didn't consider this work and everyone had a good time doing it. Bob Mitchum stressed "attack and release" until the singers found themselves singing every time he raised his hand.

GLEE CLUB

The Wabash College glee club was becoming better in every way. Having lost few seniors by graduation the preceding June, Director Robert Mitchum was able to use the organization from last year and by intensive practice in the fall was ready for a full schedule of appearances by Christmas. Besides the yearly trip to MacMurray College and the frequent appearances in central Indiana high schools, the glee club sang for the alumni association in Chicago and again in Indianapolis. There were two student chapel programs as well as a concert as a part of the Crawfordsville Community Concert series. Many of the members sang in the newly formed Crawfordsville Choral Society. Bob Bailey and Roger Drummond served as student presidents of the glee club.

Wabash Band

Row Two: John Huneke, David Wright, Bob Woodruff, John Reuter, Dave Long, Don Mitchell, Mark Ransom, Don McMasters, Charlie Lytle, Wayne Broshar.

Science Clubs

Sigma Xi is a national honorary fraternity for men of seience. The Wabash chapter is made up mostly of Division I faculty members and several senior seienee majors. About onee a month outside speakers or faculty members reported to the meetings on interrelated topies in physics, chemistry, or biology.

SIGMA XI

Row One: Eliot Williams, Willis Johnson, Don Fisher, Lynn Wright, Bill Gambill, Clayton Zieman, Robert Bruce.

Row Two: Harley Palmer, Glen Pippert, Jack Wright, Lloyd Howell, George Carscallen, J. Crawford Polley, Richard Laubengayer.

Row Two: Dick Burg, Bill Laffin, Al Kamradt, Bill Tait, Stan Long.

Row Three: Don Mitchell, Lynn Ault, Wayne Broshar, Ed Zivot, Jim Lemon.

Row Four: Dr. Zieman, Mr. Pippert, Tadash Kikuchi.

The Physics Club is a small group of physicists and interested observers who meet regularly to discuss topics related to physics, often using an outside speaker from a nearby university. The elub serves eoffee to its members on mornings when chapel is not held. Roland Hultseh was president first semester while Jim Lemon was president sceond semester.

Scarlet Masque

The Scarlet Masque is a dramatic organization which produces plays directed by students and faculty alike. This year "Light Up the Sky" and "Home of the Brave" were produced with Dr. Melvin White and Professor W. K. Clark as directors. Two nights of one acts were put on by student directors Gar Aikins, Mike Gray, and Ray Meurer.

Row Two: Bob McCord, John P. Jones, Bill Backman, Bill Miofsky, Brad Johnston, Roger Drummond, Bob Hepler, Lee Havens, Larsh Rothert.

The Scarlet Masque put on its two big productions, "Light Up the Sky" and "Home of the Brave" in the Masonic Temple. Brad Johnston and John Mahrdt served as presidents of the Masque while Dick Williams and Bill Backman acted as business managers. John Goffinet directed the stage crews.

Speech

Tau Kappa Alpha is a national forensics honorary for men in debate and other forms of public speaking. Eldon K. Andrews, a senior, is national president of the organization. The Wabash chapter has as its advisor Dr. Brigance. Election to this honorary is the highest award that can be earned in forensic work.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA

SPEAKERS' BUREAU

The Speakers' Bureau is the oldest of its kind on a college campus. Members serve without profit by speaking before civic and fraternal organizations in central Indiana and sometimes in Illinois, but the profits gained in the practice are valuable. Some of the programs are individual speakers while others are discussion groups.

Debate

Hinderced by the limited use of expericnced debators as Andrews, Rceves, Reinke, Cox, and Allen the Wabash debate squad started to rebuild. Since the seniors were busied with comps and couldn't put in a full schedule, all of the debate squad except Dixon, Long and Adams, were freshmen. They showed up very well despite the fact it was their first year in intercollegiate debate.

Wabash College made its debut into the 1951 football campaign a noticeable one as the Cavemen gave the Cards of Ball State a 34-19 drubbing at Ingalls Field.

Wabash had the opening game jitters and the Cards leaped to a 19-13 halftime margin, but the Cavemen roared out of the dressing room to pour it on and to initiate new Head Coach Garland Frazier with a well earned victory.

The Cavemen drew first blood as Cal Hilgediek's pass to Bob Holstine set up Norm Buktenica, where he plunged from the three yard line. The Cards then powered their way to three quick TD's on the running of Bob Day. With the Cavemen trailing 19-7, Jerry Huntsman went into the air and connected on a 45 yard pass to Bob Holstine for the tally.

With the score standing 19-13 against them at the beginning of the second half the Cavemen went to the air and punched across a quick touchdown. Ball State then took over but the strong forward wall of the Cavemen proved too much for the Cardinals and they were forced to pass. Jerry Huntsman warmed up his arm again and hit Cal Hilgediek for the Cavemen's second TD of the final period.

But this wasn't all. As the game proceeded the Cavemen grew stronger, this time showing their strength from the ground. Joe Dooley scooted eleven yards for the tally and Stan Huntsman displayed his power, bolting his way for fifty-one yards and Wabash's final score. Vaino Grayam split the uprights each time in the final half.

Wabash 26 Butler 26

The Little Giants' hopes of winning the Iron Key were dashed to pieces in the closing minutes of the annual Butler-Wabash classic at Ingalls Field. With the clock running out on Butler, the Bulldogs climaxed a last quarter comeback with a desperation touchdown pass that knotted the final score 26-26.

Butler drew first blood scoring on the first four plays of the game, but the Little Giants went right to work, Jerry Huntsman passing to Ken Beasley who romped over for the score from the ten. Bob Holstine rounded out Wabash's scoring in the first half on an intercepted lateral. Butler's deadly second quarter attack sent the two teams to the dressing rooms deadlocked at 13-13.

Wabash proved it was the better team in the third period. Ted Steeg and Joe Dooley combining their efforts to find paydirt from the Bulldog's twenty. The Cavemen then went to the air, quarterback Jerry Huntsman controlling the airlanes and punching across a fourth period touchdown that gave the Cavemen a thirteen point advantage.

Then the Bulldogs found a spark to kindle the fire. Halfback Don Kelly climaxed an eighty yard drive, plunging through the Wabash line for the touchdown. The conversion was good and the Wabash lead dwindled 26-20, but there was only a scarce few minutes remaining in the game. Then it happened. Butler went to the air in desperation and it paid off as halfback John Riddle gathered in a forty yard pass from quarterback Ron Hallam to tie the Cavemen 26-26. the tie breaking extra point failed and the warriors left the field with the Iron Key still in the Bulldogs' hands.

Catching fire in the final period for two touchdowns, Wabash added Knox College to its victory list by a 21-6 count.

The Knox eleven proved to be a stubborn foe for the Cavemen, as twice the Siwash men drove to the two yard line of Wabash only to fumble and lose the ball. As a result of the costly fumbles, Knox was not able to score in the initial half. Wabash's Stan Huntsman scored from the Knox seven yard line in the opening period and Vaino Grayam's successful conversion put the Cavemen in front 7-0 at the half.

Knox's only score came in the third quarter when end Bob McFarland gathered in a forty yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ivan Harlan. The PAT failed.

The fourth quarter was all Wabash. Jerry Huntsman started the final drive passing to Ken Beasley who romped the remaining distance for the touchdown. Ted Steeg then went to work on the Knox line, ripping his way for the score. Vaino Grayam split the uprights both times to give the Cavemen a 21-6 victory over Knox College.

Wabash 41 Olivet 6

Invading Olivet College Found the Little Giants a tough customer as they took it on the chin 41-6. From the opening minutes of the game the result was never in doubt as the Cavemen seemed to score at will. With Wabash resting on a 31-0 halftime lead, the fans got a preview of next year's squad when Coach Garland Frazier emptied the bench giving the entire squad a workout on the gridiron.

In the opening minutes of the game Wabash marched 54 yards to have Jerry Huntsman cap the drive with a touchdown heave to Ken Beasley. Still in the same period Wabash's tactics repeated itself, Huntsman passing to end Bob Holstine for the score following a 53 yard drive. Halfback Mike Gillis added 6 more points on his 59 yard pass to halfback Ted Steeg. Coach Frazier found his reserve strength worthy as scatback Vaino Grayam threw to end Bob Johnson and Cal Hilgediek plunged 10 yards for two more TD's respectively.

With the game coming to a close, Olivet found strength to push over six points. The O'Shanghessy Brothers, Wayne passing to Earl, gave the Comets their only touchdown.

The powerful touchdown producing machine of Wabash College rolled into Franklin and right out again hardly giving the Grizzlies of Franklin College time to realize what hit them. The Cavemen did a neat job of adding their fourth victory to their unbeaten string, dazing their hosts with a 49-6 rout.

True to form, the Scarlet spent most of their time in the air as Jerry Huntsman bombarded the Grizzlies with ten complete passes in thirteen attempts for four touchdowns, ends Bob Holstine and Ken Beasley doing the receiving. Sophomore Norm Klein did some fancy footwork in the final period, scoring twice on passes from Vaino Grayam and Cal Hilgediek. But Wabash did not find all of its punch in the air. Halfbacks Ted Steeg, Mike Gillis, Cal Hilgediek, and Stan Huntsman plus fullbacks Norm Buktenica and Frank Mascari reigned havoc on the Franklin forward wall. Buktenica bolted his way to paydirt from the Grizzlies four while Stan Huntsman powered seventeen yards for the tally, both in the opening period. Mike Gillis finished the ground assult in the third period when he ripped off right guard for the score.

The lone Grizzley touchdown came in the final period on a last minute desperation pass that paid off. Halfback Bill Turner gathered in the heave from quarterback Fred Lewis to put Franklin in the scoring column.

Vaino Grayam had a perfect day in the place kicking department, booting seven PAT's in as many attempts.

Wabash 35 University of the South 7

Waiting until the last half to explode their offensive power, Wabash pleased a fine turnout of homecoming fans despite the snow and sub-zero weather, smothering their Southern guests of Sewanee 35-7. However, the outlook wasn't so rosy at half time as the determined Sewanee eleven battled the Cavemen to a seven-seven tie. No one could have predicted the Wabash rout following the first two quarters of play.

Twice in the first quarter the Cavemen drew within striking distance of the Sewanee goal but the stubborn Sewance defense held firm. Then a short Sewance punt gave Wabash first and ten deep in their enemy's territory. Jerry Huntsman heaved an aerial to end Ken Beasley for the first score.

The out of the South arose the storm. Led by 138 pound Jim Mulkin, Sewanee darted and twisted fifty-one yards to the Wabash one yard line. The Cavemen threw a solid wall at the Sewanee offense and it wasn't until fourth down on a short pass from Mulkin to George Barker that Sewanee was able to score.

Emerging from the dressing room with the score tied, each team had a new beginning. But it was the beginning of the end for Sewanee. Husky Stan Huntsman charged off tackle early in the third quarter and scampered forty-two yards for the touchdown. Brother Jerry got the fourth period under way with a quarter back sneak that netted forty yards and another Wabash touchdown. Mike Gillis plunged over from the one to pay dirt and Ted Steeg rounded out the Cavemen's scoring plunging from the two, capping a seventy-two yard drive.

Vaino Grayam displayed his educated toe brilliantly, booting five PAT's in as many trys, giving him an excellent .987 average for six games.

Blasting their opponents from land and air, Wabash sunk Hanover College, champions of the Hoosier Conference, by a swamping 46-6 count. Playing the last home game of their victorious 1951 football campaign, the Cavemen displayed all their strength and fury in whipping the helpless Hanover team as a warning to the DePauw scouts sitting among the fans and wondering in amazement.

Quarterback Jerry Huntsman was the fury from the air connecting ten times on fifteen aerial atempts, three going for touchdowns. Two came in the first half on a sixteen yard pass to end Bob Holstine and a twenty-six yard heave hauled in by Ken Beasley. Wabash threw a total of eighteen passes of which thirteen were complete and four going the distance for the score.

Ted Steeg was the big Wabash gun on the land. In all, the Cavemen picked up 146 yards rushing plus a number of long runs nullified by penalities. Twice Ted Steeg visited the Hanover end-zone only to be called back.

The victory was the sixth for the Scarlet of Wabash and sent them into their game with DePauw undefeated.

Wabash 46 Hanover 6

Wabash 41 DePauw 12

The Die was cast. DePauw sported a perfect record for the season while Wabash had only a tie to marr a perfect slate. In the fifty-seven years of rivalry, it was the first time that the two teams met both with an undefeated season. However Wabash rumbled down the Monon and gave way to nothing. Following a slow first quarter which found Wabash in the lead 7-0 and DePauw in position for their score that came early in the second period, it was all a matter of too much Wabash power. The superb running and passing attack spelled a 41-12 defeat for the DePauw Tigers, thus ending the first Wabash undefeated season since 1915.

The Cavemen, besides coming home with the Bell, displayed impressive statistics. Jerry Huntsman tossed 16 passes, 11 complete and four of them good for touchdowns. Of the total Wabash passes, 240 yards were gained while the Tigers were picking up 172 yards via the air. Stan Huntsman, Joe Dooley, and Mike Gillis sparked the Wabash ground attack which gained 325 yards while the stalwart forward wall of the Cavemen held DePauw to a net rushing gain of minus 17 yards.

Wabash started rolling early in the first quarter, marching 55 yards from their own 45 for the score. Taking advantage of two Wabash fumbles, the Tigers were able to push across six points early in the second period, quarterback Bob Stephens connecting with Ward Shawver. On the first play following the kick, Stan Huntsman brook loose for 55 yards to pay dirt. Twice again before the half ended the Cavemen visited the Tigers goal, giving them a 27-6 halftime advantage.

Buktenica receives teammates' award

An Undefeated Season

For the first time in thirty-six years Wabash College went undefeated for an entire football campaign. The Little Giants scored 289 points against their opponents' 88, winning every game but one, which was a tie with Butler. Many followers of Wabash football expressed their opinion that the 1951 team was the greatest in Wabash history. It would be difficult, however, to compare it to the last undefeated team of 1915, when football was in its infancy.

In the post-season football banquet Norman Buktenica, who had injured his leg in the Hanover game, received the "most valuable player" award by election of his teammates. Harold "Red" Grange, former University of Illinois gridiron star, was on hand to give the main address of the evening. Dr. Sparks, Coach Frazier, and Mr. Philips all told the assembled squad how proud they were of them.

To the spectator football is a rough, hard-fought game played on Saturday afternoons usually in all kinds of weather. To the player it is the result of long, weary hours of perfecting and toughening themselves. The men who played for Wabash spent a lot of time on the practice field, but they also had a full load of classroom work. No one noticed a player late for practice when the tests came thick and fast or when there was a late lab.

No tribute is high enough for the performance given by the 1951 Wabash fooball team. No words can express the satisfaction of this Wabash community for their gridiron representatives. To the coaches, the trainer, and the team, our hats off to a job well done and an honor well earned.

1951 COACHING STAFF

Curly Armstrong came to Wabash from the Fort Wayne Zollner Pistons, and Indiana University. The team he used was deficient in height, but used an excess of hustle. Mid-season victories over DePauw and Butler made the ten won-ten lost record seem a little more impressive. George Savanovich and Bob Holstine were the only seniors who left the team, while those remaining were mostly freshmen and sophomores.

Wabash dropped its opening game to a strong Notre Dame five 75-46. The Irish onslaught cornered a 37-22 advantage at halftime and the reserves played the final half. George Savanovich paced the Wabash effort with 18 points while sophomore Joe Bertrand hit 23 for the Irish victory.

Wabash's homeseason opened in typical Caveman fashion as they won a thrilling 47-46 victory from Indiana Central. Steve Chicki's shot in the closing seconds of play turned the trick for Wabash's first victory. Paced by Savanovich's 19 points, the Cavemen commanded the game throughout and had the punch in the closing tight minutes.

A Wabash rally fell short two points as St. Joseph outlasted the Cavemen in a 71-69 contest that saw St. Joe in command the first half by considerable margin. Leading 22-10 at the end of the initial period and 43-32 at half it seemed St. Joe would coast home. But St. Joe gave way to Wabash spirit and fight as the Cavemen tied the game 69-69 with a minute remaining. Only a last second shot gave St. Joe their victory.

Ball State gave Wabash quite a bit of trouble the first three quarters. The Cardinals led at the end of the first three quarters and held a 34-18 lead at one time. Catching fire the Cavemen tied the game 50-50 with less than two minutes remaining. Bob Tucker hit a field goal and a charity toss for the 53-50 Wabash victory.

Starting slow in the initial period, "Curly" Armstrong's quintet came to life in the second frame to down Franklin College 67-53 for their second straight victory. Bill Meyers and Steve Chicki led the Cavemen with 14 and 13 points respectively while Franklin's Martin was high for his team, netting 11 points.

Trailing 14-13 at the close of the first quarter, Wabash caught fire in the last three periods to dump Denison 82-62. Out scoring Denison 17-5 in he second quarter, the Cavemen eommanded at halftime 30-19. Wabash showed its power again in the fourth period netting 27 points to Denison's 15.

In the rip-roaring game of the season, the Cavemen outlasted Butler's Bulldogs 60-58 for their first win in the field house in ten years. The high spirited Cavemen jumped to a 16-14 first quarter lead and continued to hustle in the seeond period to keep a one point advantage at halftime. From here it was nip and tuck, the

In the Midwest College Tournament Wabash was nipped in the last quarter by Ottawa of Kansas 72-70. The Cavemen commanded the first three quarters 21-13, 36-33, and 58-53 respeetively. Kansas snapped the Wabash winning streak at four, outscoring the Scarlet 19-12 in the final period.

Traveling to Hanover College, Wabash chalked up their sixth victory 79-76 in a tight, hard fought ball game. The lead changed hands nine times and was tied seventeen times. Hanover led 45-40 at half time but were quiekly overcome by a Wabash rally. Bob Tucker paeed the Wabash five with 25 points.

Throwing off a late DePauw drive, Wabash knocked off her aneient rival by a 61-57 eount. The Tiger rally eame late in the last quarter with the Cavemen holding a 45-39 advantage. Scoring 11 quick points while Wabash tallied only two, DePauw gained a 50-47 advantage. Holstine and Tueker combined their efforts to put Wabash baek in the lead. The Tigers were able to tie the game once more but couldn't quite cope with the Wabash determination.

Starting too late in the fourth quarter to overcome an 11 point lead Wabash fell victim to Hanover College 68-62. The Cavemen fought an up hill battle all the way and fell behind 66-55 with only three minutes remaining. Hanover's lead dwindled 66-62 but time had run out on the Cavemen.

The Cavemen suffered their fifth loss, 77-66, at the hands of the revengeful Bulldogs. Butler controlled the first half play holding a 32-26 lead at intermission. Roaring back after halftime, Wabash outscored the Bulldogs 29-21 to gain a 55-53 advantage at the end of the third quarter. Butler quickly regained her lead that Wabash never again challenged.

A tall, hot Illinois Wesleyan team dumped a cold Wabash five by a 92-72 count. The Illinois crew hit a warm .403 while the chilled Cavemen were hitting .267. Wabash trailed 42-36 at half but fell behind 68-51 at the third quarter mark and never challenged the lead again.

Trailing most of the first half, Wabash fired up in the final quarter to nudge Ball State 76-69. After a see-saw third quarter Wabash pulled in front 56-55 early in the last quarter and never lost their advantage.

Scoring 40 points in the last quarter, Lake Forest defeated Wabash 70-60. The Cavemen jumped to a 9-1 advantage but were trailing 14-13 at the quarter and 46-42 at half. Wabash regained its lead momentarily late in the third period but were not able to hold on to it.

A late rally falling short of its mark, Wabash lost a heartbreaker to Lawrence College 74-73. Lawrence led most of the way but the spirited Cavemen tied it 68-68 with three minutes remaining. Lawrence hit six quick points while Wabash was only able to collect five in the remaining time.

Wabash got back in the win column in a big way, dumping St. Joe 83-60. Early in the second quarter St. Joe gained a 25-24 advantage which was quickly erased by the red-hot Cavemen. Wabash then gained a comfortable lead which was never challenged.

The Greyhounds of Indiana Central proved too much for the Cavemen as they smothered Wabash 75-57. Jumping to a 22-12 advantage at the end of the first quarter, the Greyhounds were never to be fronted despite the Wabash surge that brought the Cavemen within five points of Central 34-29.

Capitalizing on free throws, DePauw defeated Wabash 68-66 in one of the most exciting games of the year. The Cavemen jumped into the lead and held it most of the first half, but never by a wide margin. Trailing 40-38 at half the Tigers suddenly found the basket and overtook the Cavemen for a five point advantage. The fourth quarter was a see-saw affair all the way but DePauw was on top at the gun. Free throws told the story, DePauw hitting 16 of 18 attempts while Wabash collected only 12 of 21 trys.

The Cavemen rounded out their season in fine fashion trampling the Grizzlies of Franklin College 78-64. After leading 19-13 and 38-30 at the end of the first two quarters respectively, Wabash's comfortable lead dwindled 40-39 midway through the third period. Seeing the danger Wabash quickly regained her lead and coasted to victory.

Coach J. Owen Huntsman

The 1952 track season was just getting started when this yearbook went to press. It looked like the Cavemen would be strong again, especially in the field events. A first of the season loss to Butler was balanced by overwhelming victories over DePauw and Indiana State. Coach Huntsman had plenty of experience from the 1951 squad whose only losses were in the hands of the University of Chicago and DePauw.

Wabash opened its track season with an impresive 95½ to 35½ victory over Indiana State. The Little Giants captured ten firsts and tied for another. Bob Williams and Jim Adams vaulted 11′ 8½″ to establish a new school record, breaking the old mark of 11′ 6″, set in 1923. Charlie Finch and Bill Tate won the one mile and two mile respectively to give Wabash a clean sweep of those events.

Showing depth in every event, Coach Huntsman's thinclads defeated Butler University and St. Joe in a three way meet, 82¾ to 78¾, to St. Joe's ½ point. The Cavemen captured only five blue ribbons to Butler's ten but the depth in every event proved victorious for Wabash. The climax of the meet came with the last event, the mile relay, and Butler trailing Wabash by only two points. The first three runners for Wabash fell before the University of Chicago 70⅔ to 60⅓ in the first dual defeat for Wabash in the last two seasons. Stan Huntsman broke the school javelin record when he hurled it 184′ 4″. Stan also won the shot put and tied for top honors in the pole vault. Charlie Finch stepped off a fine time in the mile run of 4:33.2 and the relay team turned in a new record of 3:31.7 against the Chicago competition.

The Cavemen, showing they had not lost their punch in the Chicago defeat, trounced Valparaiso in a dual meet 102 to 29. Wabash captured all but three of the fifteen first places. Charlie Finch and Bill MacDougall were double winners for the Cavemen in the mile and half and the discus and shot put respectively.

Wabash captured its fourth victory of the season defeating the University of Louisville 78⅓ to 58⅔. Bob Williams again broke his own vaulting record of 11′8½″, by jumping 12′½″. On a rain soaked track Wabash defeated Franklin College 97 to 34. The times and distances were all below par because of the soggy track and adverse weather conditions. The Grizzlies of Franklin were able to produce only two blue ribbons against Wabash's thirteen.

Traveling to Earlham for a quadrangle meet, Wabash defeated its three rivals, Earlham, Anderson, and Taylor, by 57 points. Wabash won eight firsts and scored 13 points in the shot and 10 points in the 100 yard dash. A wet track from previous rains prevented any spectacular times.

The Cavemen were defeated in their last dual meet of the season 71 to 60 by DePauw. The lead changed hands at the completion of practically every event. DePauw captured eight firsts to Wabash's seven. In the mile relay. The Searlet team pushed DePauw to a new season record of 3:26.2. The loss was the second of the season for Wabash against six wins.

Wabash opened its 1951 baseball eampaign with a barrage of runs as the Cavemen dumped Franklin College 12-3 in 25 degree weather. The Cavemen jumped on the Franklin hurler for six runs in the first inning and eoasted to the vietory. A heavy snow stopped the eontest in the seventh.

Big Ten competition left its mark on the Cavemen as Purdue shut out Wabash 14-0. The Boilermakers' big bats produeed the winning margin. Wabash was able to put men on the bases but laeked the power against Big Ten pitehing to bring them home.

Wabash opened its home competition with a 9-3 vietory over St. Joseph. Jerry Gilpin turned in an exeellent six innings of pitehing as he relieved Bob Holstine who developed a side ache in the third inning. Bob Maee held the big bat for the Cavemen batting in three runs on a triple and a single.

In a well pitehed ball game, the Cavemen edged Canterbury College 4-2 for their third win in four games. Carl Wells pitched exeellent ball for Wabash, striking out eight and passing only one while Canterbury's hurler struek out four and passed one. Cateher, Jerry Burton paeed the Cavemen with three hits in four attempts, two of them for extra bases.

A third inning triple by Bob Maee with the bases jammed gave Wabash a 5-3 victory over their arch rival DePauw. The Tigers couldn't solve Carl Well's pitching until the seventh, but Wabash's heads up fielding nipped DePauw's rally and helped Wells out of his trouble.

Butler wallopped Wabash's pitehers for six runs in the fourth inning to hand the Cavemen a 10-1 trouneing. Wabash's lone run eame in the seventh inning after Ed Keith singled to right field, was foreed to seeond on a bas on balls, and took home on a wild throw.

Committing seven errors and producing only four hits, Wabash bowed to DePauw 8-2. The Cavemen tied the game two all in the top of the sixth but DePauw combined hits and Wabash errors for five runs and the winning margin in their half of the sixth inning.

Indiana State swept both ends of a double header from Wabash 5-1 and 8-2. State elinehed the opener with four big runs in the initial inning.

Baran slams a long one.

Wabash scored in the second but failed to push across any more. The Cavemen drew first blood in the second game scoring two runs on three successive singles in the fourth inning. State tied it up at four apieee in the bottom half of the fourth and went ahead to score three more in each of the next two innings.

Butler's Bulldogs made a clean sweep against Wabash as they belted the Cavemen 10-2 in their second meeting of the year.

Purdue spanked the Cavemen 16-4 pounding out seventeen hits in eight innings. Wabash eollected four runs on six hits that were seattered enough not to do any serious damage. The Cavemen scored all their runs in the first two innings and led Purdue 4-0 at the end of two innings when the roof fell in.

After dropping six in a row, Wabash came to life and won her last two games, 15-5 from St. Joseph and 8-2 from Canterbury College. The two wins gave the Cavemen a six won seven lost record for the season. The 15-5 slaughter of St. Joe was a result of Wabash's big bats eombined with St. Joe errors in the right spots. Against Canterbury, Jerry Gilpin turned in a faney four hitter for the Cavemen while Wabash pounded Canterbury's Lewis for fourteen hits.

Another face appears in Wabash sports as Doc Bolton takes reign of the Wabash golf squad. Coach Bolton reports only two returning lettermen but states that the freshmen have some fine material that may prove worthy of a berth on the squad. Bob Norris and Karl Dickerson are the two returning lettermen and will probably lead the team this season. Freshmen Karl Scheffer, John Reuter, and Ed Gass are reported to be bright potentials. Bolton announced that a series of qualification matches will be played to determine the team members. A thirteen match schedule will confront the Wabash linksmen.

TENNIS

New head tennis coach Art Dickinson has sixteen men trying for positions on this year's squad. Returning are five lettermen and two numeral winners. The lettermen are Al Keisker, Jack Vetterli, Pete Shepard, Herb Dixon, and Jim Cox. The numeral winners are Jules Walker and Richard Rose. A good deal of quality and enthusiam on the squad promises a successful year. Coach Dickinson is holding three practice sessions a week at first but will hold one session a day as the squad gets into shape. An excellent schedule should make the competition keen among the squad members for top positions.

INTRAMURALS

The 1951-1952 intramural season started off early in the fall with cross-country running and football highlighting the picture. Sigma Chi won the cross-country trophy behind such stalwarts as Tait and Fouts. This was the third year in a row that the Sigs had taken such honors. Football was played on the practice field this year. The games were fast and fierce, but the Sig Chis again came out on top along with the Kin-Kan independents and the Betas. Close behind were the Phi Gams. Sigma Chi was well ahead in total points with Kin-Kan pressing closely.

Immediately after the return from Thanksgiving vacation the volleyball season opened up. Beta Theta Pi was the strongest team despite determined efforts of the Phi Gams to win the title for another year. Klingaman, Littell, and Engledow were instrumental in winning the cup.

Kin-Kan again was gunning for the basketball title, but a cool and determined Phi Delta Theta team grabbed the cup. Phi Delt stalwarts Stan and Jerry Huntsman along with Al Kelly and Bob Johnson were key men in the victory. The competition was exceptionally keen, with the fight for the title lasting to the final game.

The Phi Delts scored again with the Huntsman brothers winning the badminton doubles. Laurie Becker of the Phi Gams became the only double sport winner by sweeping through the badminton singles and handball. Single-handed, he put the Phi Gams into the race for the intramural trophy.

Just before spring sports began an indoor earnival was held for the second year. Short dashs, the high jump and other events were carried on in the gym with last year's winner, the Betas, as the strong contender. But the Phi Gams came through to win the contest, with the Phi Psis behind them. The whole effect was to shuffle up the intramural standings so that as this book went to press Kin-Kan was in first place followed by Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Chi. Baseball and track remained to see who would win the intramural trophy.

BETA THETA PI

Tau chapter of Beta Theta Pi could easily be called a well-rounded group by virtue of their strong showing in the intramural race and by being close to the top in scholastic average. Ted Steeg and Bob Hay were regular starters on the gridiron while an unfortunate injury kept Dick Crampton from participating. The Betas tied for first in intramural football and won the volleyball cup in the intramural program. Officers were Bob Hay, president; Bob Miller, vice president; Les Nell, treasurer, and Roger Kumler, secretary.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Beta Psi chapter of Delta Tau Delta started their eightieth year at Wabash off by capturing two decoration trophies in the fall—the Butler game float contest and the Homecoming Decorations Prize. On the football field the Delts were represented by Mike Gillis, Bob Hepler, and Sparky Watts, while Doyle Pickett and Dick Franks were active in publications. John Mahrdt served as president of the Scarlet Masque, besides being active in speech work. Officers were Bob Augsburger, president; Mike Gillis, vice-president; Don Mitchell, treasurer, and Dave Elvart, recording secretary.

KAPPA SIGMA

Alpha Pi chapter of Kappa Sigma was strong in scholarship and in campus publications. Paul McKinney and Nick Steele edited the Wabash Review, while former Wabash editor Gail Mullin was president of Pi Delta Epsilon and the board of publications. A house quartet was popular as entertainment, especially at dances. Jim Smith served as president along with Tom Elkins, vice president; Jim Duncan, treasurer; and Don McMasters, secretary.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Alpha Kappa chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha is the smallest fraternity on the Wabash campus, yet its members, and especially the seniors, didn't fail to leave their impress. Jim Hostetter headed the Wabash public information bureau, and was chosen to be a commencement speaker. Bob Holstine was the school's most valuable athlete, having won letters in football, basketball, and baseball. Officers were Ted Knapp, president; Larsh Rothert, vice-president; and Bill Miofsky, secretary.

PHI DELTA THETA

Indiana Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta was equally strong in the intramural field as well as having a high proportion of its men in varsity sports. Cups in basketball and badminton were won to keep the Phi Delts close to the top in intramurals. Jerry and Stan Huntsman, Ken Beasley, Jim Swope, Jack Fitzgerald, and Vaino Grayam played varsity football, while in track the Phi Delts were again well represented by the Huntsman brothers, Jim Adams, Cal Hilgediek, and Lynn Ault. Officers for the year were Jim Swope, president; Bob Stith, vice-president; and Fred Gallagher, treasurer.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Psi chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was especially strong in campus activities, with key men in most campus organizations as well as a good proportion in sports, especially the spring sports. Bachelor, Caveman, and Wabash editors were from this house, as well as the presidents of Blue Key, Alpha Phi Omega, Y.M.C.A., Scarlet Maque, and the Political Forum. For general efficiency during the 1950-51 school year the Phi Gams won their national fraternity's top award, the Cheney cup. Officers were Brad Johnston, president; Jim Murray, treasurer; Dick Gooding, secretary; Bob Raich, secretary; and Dick Williams, historian.

PHI KAPPA PSI

Indiana Gamma chapter of Phi Kappa Psi returned to a newly remodeled house in the fall. The chapter, which had started on the campus in 1948, was the strongest it had been since that date. The Phi Psis won the founders' day singing award in competition with other Indiana Phi Psi chapters. In the spring they captured the first Skit Night trophy. Dick Daniels and Dick Cheney were active for the Bachelor; Jim Lemon headed the Physics Club; and Chuck Barnes was campus photographer. The Phi Psis were first on campus in blood donations. Officers were Bob Byers, president; Jim Lemon, vice-president; Pat Anderson and Don Smith, secretaries; and Tom Haddow, treasurer.

SIGMA CHI

Delta Chi chapter of Sigma Chi started off the year with the 1951 intramural trophy on their mantle. Victories in football and cross-country put them back in the race for this year. On the basketball floor the Sigs were well represented by Carl Wells, Steve Chicki, George Savanovich, and Al Ganz. Whitey Neal was named editor of the new magazine, while along with Tom Florsheim were student assistants for the College Industry Program. Joe Fouts, Bill Tait, and Dick Carlson were on the cross-country team. Officers were Jim Brenner, president; Lynn Wright, vice-president; Jack Scott, secretary; and Jim Tehalo, treasurer.

INDEPENDENT MEN

The independent men of Wabash College include all non-fraternity men, but the Independent Men's Organization, headed this year by Bob McCreery and Max Sneary, was a very active group. Intramural teams were exceptionally strong, with Kin Kan the name of the independent team, winning in football while being a strong contender in basketball and baseball. Norm Buktenica was voted the most valuable football player, and served as president of the Senior Council. Former Caveman editor and eminent cartoonist Don Cole amused everyone with his weekly strips in the Bachelor. Bob McCreery was active in speech work, the Bachelor, and in the College Industry Program.

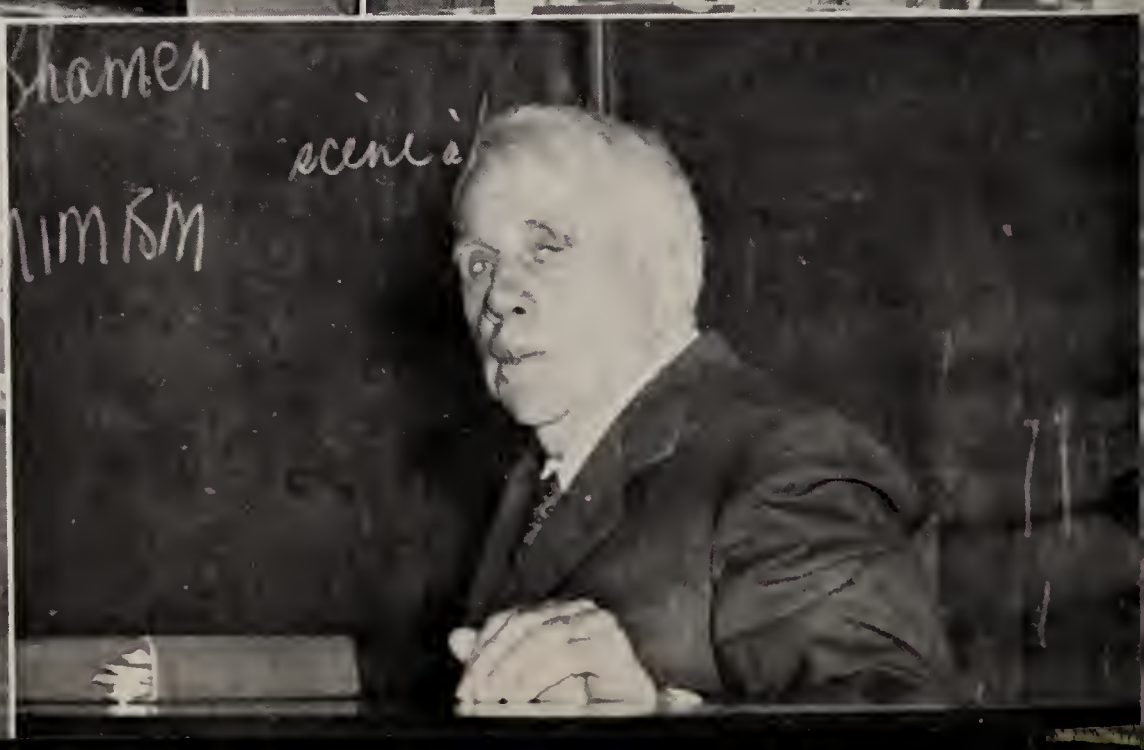
1952

We returned to begin another year at Wabash. We found out that a few of our friends had joined the armed forces. After the initial week of rushing things settled down, and classes began. The Wabash football team came from behind to beat Ball State while we watched in sun-drenched stands. The fraternities began a round of pledge dances, while before the senior council freshman hazing went into full swing. Several unfortunate rhynies had to pit their vocal ability before the august group, but none lost their hair. Father's Day came, and there was a banquet at the Municipal Club, giving the dads a chance to meet the professors their sons talked so frequently about. Robert Frost, noted poet, entertained us in chapel by "playing with words," while those of us lucky enough to have our ten o'clocks called off heard him hold forth in Center Hall.



ACTIVITIES

Professor Carl E. Steinhauser eame to us as an instructor in German from the University of Chicago and Faith Theological Seminary. For a week preceding the Butler football game the eampus was guarded by the freshman class. By the Friday before the game we werc worn out with false alarms. The day of the iron key battle eame with a continuous downpour. The fraternities exhibited rain-soaked floats in a mass parade at noontime. Delta Tau Delta won the cup given for the best float with their "Basting Bcfore the Blasting." On Ingalls Field the Cavemen were hampered with mud, and despite the faet that wc led the last quartcr, Butler seored in the last minutes to tie the game. We held our breath while the extra point was bloeked by the Little Giants, producing for the second year in a row a tie ball gamc with the Bulldogs.

As homecoming approached we could see old man Weather was going to give us a work out. The thermometer dropped, but the Friday night celebration was carried out as scheduled. Those who watched the freshmen run around the bonfire shivered and laughed as the rhynies sweated from their exertions. Adjourning to the courthouse steps, several frosty cheers were held before the group went on to the Strand. There W. K. Clark and the Kappa Sig quartet entertained us while beard winners were picked. Pajamas were the dress of the day for the freshmen.

Despite weather conditions the alumni returned in large groups and huddled in the stands while a strong wind from the west whirled round our feet. On the gridiron the Little Giants ran over the University of the South. The homeeoming deeorations were judged, and Delta Tau Delta's loeomotive and train idea won. The football team went on to win the rest of its games. After that we all took a few days off for Thanksgiving vacation. A"gunpowder plot" to walk out of chapel in eelebration of an undefeated season failed when the leader caught laryngitis. His minions hovered in the wings of the chapel while Dr. Sparks extoled the advantages of uneommercialized football.

Forest Hall, oldest building on campus and site of the first Wabash classrooms, was moved again to make room for new student dormitories, about which there was plenty of talk but a minimum of action. The new Forest Hall was set up behind old South Hall, which quietly continued its crumbling away. With winter on the campus came the age old weekend "problem," about which there was much discussion. It was made known that Wabash had inherited the Baker Tract, a plot of land on Sugar Creek with trails rivaling those of Turkey Run or the Shades. In true Caveman fashion the zoology students made a trip to southern Indiana to observe small beasts in large caves.

When spring came the campus burst into bloom. The track squad began daily workouts, while once a month a section of the all-campus bridge tournament was held. With students and faculty participating the competition was keen. Jim Duncan and Carl Ray won honor for Wabash by placing fourth in the Midwest Collegiate Bridge Tournament in Chicago. Plans were made for Pan-Hel with interferences with Mother's Day and the Little State Track Meet forcing the dance to be held the weekend before finals began. Term papers started to come due for most of us, while discussion of presidential candidates commenced.

Performing well during the football and basketball seasons, the yell leaders did their best to control the cheering at home games. Despite efforts to stifle the Wabash drum, cheers seemed to be as raucous as ever. An unknown group, strongly suspected of being freshmen, demonstrated against the decision not to use the drum at home games by removing the clapper from the bell in Center Hall. We all had to chuckle at such antics as we strolled into classes five minutes late. Earlier in the year the Caveman, which had been operating for almost thirty years, was brought up for final carpeting before the Dean. Editor Brad Johnston pleaded the case for his wayward child, but the cause was lost and the famed rag was dropped from the Board of Publications.

We were all ready for spring vacation when it rolled around, but still a surprising number stayed over to welcome potential freshmen who came to take honor scholarship exams. Two hundred and fifty showed up and were fed and housed in the various fraternities. The seniors started their review for comps, scheduled for early in May. There were many hours spent reviewing courses which somehow seemed strange, but at last the dread exams were over and the seniors could breathe freely once more. An all-school picnic was held at the Baker Tract to acquaint this area to the student body. Mother's Day included the Pan-Hellenic song contest.

The long-awaited Pan-Hel dance was here. Many hours and no small amount of energy were devoted to decorating the gym. The two nights of dancing were enough to wear everyone out, while hiking at nearby state parks made our feet feel worse the next night. With commencement coming up the Phi Betes were announced, and awards were given on the lawn in front of Center Hall on Senior Day. Dick Gooding and Jim Hostetter were chosen for student speakers at commencement. At last the great day came, and eighty-seven seniors walked up to receive their A.B. degrees. This ended our Wabash year.

Acknowledgements

We, the editor and business manager of Wabash 1952, would like to thank the following people who helped us make this yearbook possible.

The editorial staff, all of whom served as volunteers, was composed of Jim Duncan, assistant editor; Bob Woods, sports editor; Gordon Smith, activities; Dave Lewis, residence and faculty; and Ray Rice, activities and intramurals.

Jack Bundy of the S. K. Smith Company gave some good advice on the covers. Miss Helen Brewton and her workers spent a lot of time photographing the entire student body individually. Ralph Haas handled most of the photography, and gave consistently fine work, sometimes at great trouble on his part. Bill Moore, George Floyd, and George Grubb, Jr., represented the engravers, the G. R. Grubb Company.

The Howell-Goodwin Printing Company did a fine job on the printing, and thanks go to "Red" Howell and "Goodie" for the extra work they put out to make this book a success.

Sincerely,
Bob Raich
Dick Franks

BEHIND THE SCENES

The glamour of huge industrial plants, intricate machinery, and mass production methods is the usual mental picture of American Industry. And a true picture of much manufacturing . . . but not so with photo engraving.

Machinery? Certainly! Precision equipment, but not mass production. Glamourous? Yes! Skilled hands and chemical processes and always intriguing.

Your year book is the result of many procedures . . . photography, copy writing, art, engraving, printing and binding, plus salesmanship, accounting, etc.

The graphic arts industry has many branches and many opportunities. You might consider the possibilities of your future in this highly interesting business.
